ALDER & LOOM

Returns & refunds policy

Your return options

1.1 Our 30-day promise

If a purchase is not right, notify us within 30 calendar days after delivery and send it back within 14 calendar days after your notice. Returns are free using our prepaid mainland UK label. Email support@alderandloom.example with the order reference and the items being returned. You do not need to give a reason to cancel an online order, although feedback helps us improve.

1.2 Online cancellation rights

For online orders, the statutory cancellation period runs until 14 days after delivery, followed by 14 days to send goods back after notification. Our 30-day promise adds time; it does not replace those rights. You may examine and try on goods as you would in a shop. Any reduction for handling beyond what is necessary will be explained and supported by evidence.

1.3 Extended-period condition

For change-of-mind requests first made on days 15-30, goods must be unworn apart from indoor fitting, unwashed, with original tags attached and suitable for resale. These extended-period conditions do not restrict statutory cancellation or rights for faulty goods. Sale purchases are covered by the same policy.

1.4 Keeping a record

Use the issued label or a tracked service and keep proof of posting. If you use your own carrier for a change-of-mind return, its cost is yours unless we agree otherwise. Contact support before sending goods to ensure the correct warehouse destination. A return authorisation helps tracking but is not required to exercise statutory cancellation rights.

Refunds, postage and exchanges

2.1 Refund timing

We aim to inspect returns within three working days and initiate refunds within five working days after receipt. For statutory online cancellations, reimbursement is made within the applicable 14-day deadline; we may withhold it until goods or evidence of dispatch are received, whichever comes first. We use the original payment method unless another method is expressly agreed without fees. Bank display times may vary.

2.2 Outbound delivery

When the whole order is returned under our policy, we refund the goods and any standard outbound delivery paid. If express delivery was chosen, the standard equivalent is refunded and the upgrade is not. For partial change-of-mind returns, original delivery is not refunded where it would have cost the same for the retained items. We do not retroactively charge delivery because a partial return lowers the retained order below the free-delivery threshold.

2.3 Refund examples

A GBP 58 hoodie with GBP 3.95 standard delivery, returned as the entire order, produces a GBP 61.95 refund. The same goods with GBP 6.95 express delivery produce GBP 61.95, retaining the GBP 3.00 express upgrade. An order originally eligible for free delivery has no delivery charge to refund.

2.4 Exchanges and gifts

We do not reserve exchange stock. Return the original item and place a new order for the desired variant. Refunds go to the original payer; a gift recipient should contact support with proof of purchase. Discounted items are refunded at the amount paid, not their original list price.

Faults, exceptions and support

3.1 Faulty or incorrect goods

Contact support if goods arrive damaged, are incorrect or develop a fault. Supply the order reference and a description; photographs can help but do not replace an assessment of your rights. Where goods fail statutory standards, remedies may include rejection and refund, repair or replacement. We cover necessary return costs for accepted faulty or incorrect-item claims. The 30-day change-of-mind limit is not a limit on all faulty-goods claims.

3.2 Assessment and escalation

The short-term right to reject faulty goods normally lasts 30 days from delivery. After that, repair or replacement may be appropriate, with further remedies where required. Normal wear, accidental damage and misuse are assessed separately from product faults. If you disagree with a decision, ask for review by the Customer Experience Lead.

3.3 Exceptions and seasonal dates

No seasonal extension is currently active. Personalised goods and certain unsealed hygiene-sensitive goods can have different cancellation rules, but these are not part of the current catalogue. We will state any applicable exception before purchase. Original packaging is helpful but does not remove statutory rights if missing.

3.4 Effective policy

Version 2.0 applies to orders placed from 11 November 2026. Earlier orders retain any more favourable statutory entitlement; support uses the policy in force when the order was placed for voluntary benefits. This policy does not affect statutory rights.
